Going beyond simple IT Installations with true business integration

Successfully connecting with your customers requires a keen focus on customer preferences and the agility to transform your business to reflect those preferences. Deploying next generation technology is a necessary step in remaining competitive, but your success depends upon true business integration and not just fragmented installations. At NCR we understand your business needs and provide IT deployment solutions that are truly integrated into your retail environment. Partner with NCR to effectively integrate IT solutions across your enterprise while you remain focused on what is important; running your business.

Transformation begins with a trusted partner and a plan

Transforming your stores is both an exciting and overwhelming task. Enterprise-wide technology deployments are indeed a significant undertaking to conduct on your own, and with minimal resources and inexperience it can cost you greatly. The right partnership with an experienced service provider can ensure that you deploy your solutions when and where you require.

NCR can help streamline the process with trained resources, integration expertise and a solid infrastructure to effectively scale for retail IT deployments anywhere across the globe. Let NCR lead your technology integration efforts enabling you to more quickly realize a return on your investments.

We're as focused on your big picture as you are.

Begin your transformation today

Don't let the thought of IT deployment nightmares discourage you from deploying the new technology you need to move your business forward. Whether you are updating your in-store wireless network, introducing new point of sale devices or implementing new self-service technology, NCR is here to make your life easier. We will partner with you to lead your planned deployment cycles ensuring that your technology is integrated properly to work within your unique retail environment.

Deployed retail technology can include the following technology:

- Point-of-sale systems and peripherals
- Self-service checkout technology
- Self-service kiosk technology
- Networking deployments for back-office and Local Area Networks (LANs) infrastructures such as Wireless LANs and Wired Wide Area Networks

The global multi-vendor expertise your business requires

Enjoy the simplicity of a single-source for your IT deployment needs. Whether your equipment is from one vendor or multiple vendors, NCR has the expertise to integrate solutions into your environment quickly and efficiently enabling you to realize a more expedient return on your IT investments.

NCR is armed with over 13,000 badged professionals who have deep domain expertise associated with complex retail multisite and multivendor integration projects. NCR can easily support deployments in multiple locations around the world, in more than 90 countries. NCR conducts over 480,000 equipment installations, moves, adds and changes annually.

Long-term success

NCR is committed to being your long-term partner. Deployment doesn't end with flipping the "on" switch. Our installation professionals will train your staff on the newly installed technology so that you are ready to hit the ground running, making the most out of your investment. If desired, we will also de-install and dispose of your old equipment as part of the deployment process. Count on NCR as your long-term partner who has the solutions to meet your needs both now and as your business evolves.
